Defense Committees Appointed University Enrollment Drops 143

Drop Between Quarters Similar to Other Years; Men Outnumber Women

Thirteen hundred and sixty-three students, 143 less than last quarter, have enrolled in the university for the winter term, according to registration figures released by the president's office yesterday. This total is 22 per cent less than that of winter quarter a year ago and 10 per cent less than last quarter.

In spite of the war, the draft and national defense, men still outnumber the women on the campus by the total of 770 to 593 or a ratio of 1.3 men to each woman. Last quarter a total of 1,506 attended the university, of which 868 were men and 638 women. Although 213 did not return to school, 70 new or former students not in school last quarter were added to the registration lists.

The drop in enrollment is not serious, however, Miss Henrietta Wilhelm, assistant registrar, said. Each year the university experiences a similar drop between the fall and winter quarters. Since the fall quarter was begun with approximately 20 per cent less students than last year, each quarter's enrollment can be expected to drop by the same percentage as compared to the corresponding quarter of a year ago, Miss Wilhelm explained.

CPT Students Must Enroll For Course

Secondary Class Men
To Be Given Deferment
From Service

Students who plan to take the secondary course in the spring Civilian Pilot Training program must enroll immediately, Dr. Harold Chatland, assistant professor of mathematics and ground school instructor, announced yesterday.

The secondary course, which begins late winter quarter, will include men who have completed primary training and who pass the required physical examination. They will be deferred from military service until their training is finished, Dr. Chatland said.

Those qualified to enroll for advanced training are LaVerne Schultz, Lewistown; Morris Moe, Geraldine; Orville Robbins, Herreid, S. Dak.; Alfred Buckner, Custer; Joe Beck, Deer Lodge; Elmer Gentry, Kalispell; Eugene Hirst, Billings; Trygve Brendsdal, Antelope; Robert Kenyon, Billings; Fritz Krieger, Park City; Rex Stage and Vance Fallon, Great Falls, and Dick McClung, Bill Miloglav, Gaspard Deschamps and Elwood Nelson, all of Missoula.

SPURS TO BE INVITED

The Bozeman Spurs will be asked to attend the Bobcat-Grizzly basketball game Jan. 30, as guests of the university Spurs, it was decided at Spur meeting recently.

No Mooseheads For Barristers

Tickets for Barristers' will go on sale Friday and can be purchased from any law student or from the law librarian, Crest Cyr, Missoula, chairman of the ticket committee, announced yesterday.

Representatives sent to all fraternities and sororities will urge members to be among the first to buy the limited number of tickets, Cyr added.

Bill Scott, Great Falls, chairman of the publicity committee, says the lawyers have put the world's largest moosehead in mothballs and it will not be on display at the dance this year, Feb. 7. Students will remember that the forestry school has a similar but somewhat smaller head of this type, Scott reminded.

Many prominent alumni and state officials are expected to come, Scott said. We can promise that the punch really will be punch if we have to go broke to get it that way, he concluded.

Tony Harlowe, Miles City, chairman of the decorations committee, promises something new in decorations that will surprise even the most hardened guests at Barrister's Ball.

Faculty Elects Merrill Head Of Committee

Faculty members elected Dr. A. S. Merrill chairman of a six-man Budget and Policy committee for 1942 at a group meeting Tuesday. The committee will advise President E. O. Melby on university welfare.

The group selected Dr. Gordon B. Castle, professor of zoology, as Division of Sciences representative with Dr. J. W. Howard, professor of chemistry, as holdover member. E. L. Freeman, professor of English, was elected representative from the Division of Arts with Dr. B. E. Thomas, professor of Spanish, as holdover. Division of Schools representatives will be Thomas C. Spaulding, dean of forestry, and A. L. Stone, dean of journalism holdover member.

The committee will meet today to discuss university defense matters.

Comes from Abroad

Eva Sagh, Czechoslovakian war refugee, recently arrived on the campus after attending New York City college for three years. She was brought to the university under the auspices of the Interchurch Conference committee.

Eva Sagh, War Refugee, Likes Students, Mountains

"I like your university so much; the mountains and the campus are beautiful here and everyone has been very kind to me," Eva Sagh, student war refugee from Czechoslovakia, said yesterday after spending nearly three days on the campus.

The small, rather wistful, dark haired and dark eyed girl arrived here Monday night from New York where she has been attending City college for the past three years. Eva speaks with a soft accent and has a quiet glowing personality. She has already expressed a desire to take part in college activities.

Enjoys Sports

"It seems as if I will have time for many things here that I have never got around to before," Eva said. "In New York much time was spent traveling to and from school in subways, as well as getting other places. Here I want to catch up on my reading in my spare time; there have been so many good books out lately, and I haven't had a chance to read any of them."

Miss Sagh entered the university with an advanced standing and plans to major in social science, although, she confessed, she has not definitely decided yet what she will study. Eva expressed her belief that her English would improve during her stay here because she believes everyone out here speaks

STUDENT SOCIETY TODAY IN THE COUNTRY

The view-point of one writer was recently expressed with these words: "It will seem strange that students will be dancing, coking, rallying, while soldiers will be lying in the rain and cold, and Chinese will be starving."

And we ask him—what does he want the students to do—attend school day after day, read the papers and lament and cut out social life entirely?

There are several things, which taken collectively, help a nation to win a war. Needed are machinery, factories, armaments and above all—morale. Without the latter the other items usually would be useless. And while we don't say that a complete abstinence of social life would wreck the morale of the nation's college students, it certainly would do it more harm than good.

One school has attempted to meet the war situation by curtailing extra-curricular activities. Hops have been cancelled and assembly programs dropped when deemed necessary.

It seems to be an inane way to meet the emergency. During this period anything which might tend to decrease morale should be abolished.

Certainly we should not concentrate on social life to any great extent. Our efforts should be devoted to causes more productive to national unity, but the attitude that there should be a cessation altogether seems out of place.

Communications

Several comments have come to my attention from members of this year's senior class regarding the advisability of wearing caps and gowns for their Sentinel senior pictures. Some seemed quite perturbed that the photographs were to be taken in street clothing.

I would like to take this opportunity to explain the staff's attitude on caps and gowns. The reason an attempt was not made this year to have seniors photographed in graduation garb was mainly the unpleasant precedent created by the last effort in this direction. Editor Mueller in '39 decided, with much opposition, to attempt a break-away from the informal nature of sorority, fraternity and senior portraits in the book. When the smoke finally cleared away, two fraternities appeared in street clothing, the rest in tuxes and seniors appeared in caps and gowns with the exception of the members of two schools who appeared in street clothing. The effect, to minimize, was a haphazard mess of heterogeneously dressed individuals.

Editors for the next two years carried on the tux precedent for fraternities and the uniform garb for sororities but shied away from any effort to regiment the seniors to cap and gown portraits. We could see no reason to attempt another ice breaking with other conditions on the book as precarious as they are.

Then too, the desire of seniors to be photographed in cap and gown, however sincere and urgent, was not brought to the attention of the staff until the week-end before photographing of seniors was to begin. This left too little time for organization of the project unless seniors photographed early in the week were willing to be rephotographed in cap and gown at their own expense. On this count I think it would have been a superfluous waste of energy to consult them.

I hope this clears up any misgivings in the minds of those seniors who wanted to be photographed in caps and gowns. Future classes might well bear in mind that an early start is more than desirable in molding the will of some nearly 300 students to a common cause.

so well. Back in New York City college, she said, there are many students of different nationalities and the majority of them speak with accents.

Came in 1938

Miss Sagh came to the United States in 1938, the year it seemed evident in Czechoslovakia that Hitler would take over the country. After arriving in New York she made her home at the International House, a boarding house for students from all parts of the world. While attending school she did part time secretarial work.

Miss Sagh was brought here under the auspices of the Interchurch Conference committee, supervised by the Rev. Harvey F. Baty, and the campus committee of the World Student Service fund, presided over by Betty Lou Burns, Butte.

"The one thing that seems characteristic of the university students," Eva says, "is the informal ease and friendliness with which they treat everyone. The girls at the co-op house and the Rev. Baty have all been very kind and helpful to me since my arrival and I appreciate it."

"I want to do well here," she added, "for the benefit of those who made it possible for me to come, as well as for myself."

De-"Bunk"-ery

By DOROTHY ROCHON

Vocal chords of the New hall gals are getting a bit strained these days. Seems that a number of the lassies went to town over the holidays in the way of jewelry-for-the-fingers collections, and the rest of the dorm has had to sing "I Love You Truly" as a dinner-time serenade to a different one of the fortunates every night since.

After having been forced (under threat of a subpoena, summons and the rest of all that dribble) to give the labor-laden lawyers further publicity on the ball they are unloading on the unsuspecting campus this quarter, I hereby repeat a few of the promises they have been making. Best deal of the year—swank and yet most fun dance of the year—best "punch" ever—best dates ever for both men and women. More power to them if they can swing such a Utopian deal.

With a blackout perhaps in the offing, it is well that all students be prepared to meet the emergency.

1. As soon as the bombs start dropping, run like —ll. (It doesn't matter where, just so you run like—well!) Wear track shoes, if possible. If the people in front of you are slow, you won't have any trouble stepping over them.

2. Take advantage of opportunities afforded you when air raid sirens sound the warning of attack, for example: If in a bakery, grab some grub (it relieves the monotony of dorm food); if in a tavern, grab a few beers; if in a movie or on a university bus, grab a blonde.

3. If you find an unexploded bomb, always pick it up and shake well. Maybe the firing pin is stuck. If that doesn't work, heave it in the furnace. (The fire department will come later and take care of things.)

4. If an incendiary bomb is found burning in a building, throw gasoline on it. (You can't put it out anyway, so you might as well have a little fun.) If no gasoline is available, throw a bucket of water on it and lie down. You're dead. The properties of the bomb free the hydrogen from the water, causing rather rapid combustion.

5. Always get excited and holler. (It will be added to the fun and confusion, and scare heck outa the kids.)

6. Drink heavily, eat' onions, limburger cheese, etc., before entering a crowded air-raid shelter. (It will make you rather unpopular with those in your immediate vicinity, eliminating any unnecessary discomfort that would be more prevalent if people crowded too closely.)

7. If you should be the victim of a direct bomb hit, don't go to pieces. (Lie still and you'll be collected later.)

Grizzlies Drill Hard for Gonzagans

Montana Floor Will Be Scene Of Double Bill

Montana's cagers, fresh from last week's double win over Idaho Southern Bengals, swung into heavy drill this week in preparation for Gonzaga's invasion tomorrow and Saturday nights.

Coach Dahlberg sent his charges, considerably bolstered by their 58-39 and 39-35 wins last week, through stiff scrimmage sessions in an effort to develop ball handling and scoring punch necessary to win over the tall and experienced Bulldog crew.

Fast break offense was stressed Tuesday with co-captains Jones and De Groot at forwards, Gene Clawson and Dutch Dahmer alternating in the center slot, and Paul Nicholas and Harry Hesser, guards.

The Grizzlies have been used to the set three-two offense and their first crack at the new style was not encouraging. Later in the week, however, their ball handling and lay in shots were much more effective.

In order for the fast break style of play to pay off, Montana must be able to control play off the opponents' blackboard. Difficulties will be encountered against Gonzaga as they have a tall team and are scrappy under the basket.

Scoring is the Grizzlies main difficulty. In all of the games played so far they have been able to get plenty of shots, but have been inconsistent in hitting.

Jones and DeGroot Score

Jones and DeGroot seem to have finally found the pay ring. Jones led the scoring last week-end with 31 in the two games and DeGroot came through with 25 for his share. Mainstays of the Montana scoring attack last year, both men have been off, but look as though they have their sights set for the basket.

Clawson is steadily improving. His ball handling is much better, backboard work has improved and he has contributed much needed points in the last few tussles.

Dahmer Looks Good

Dahmer, alternating at center and guard, looked good during practice this week and will see his share of action in the Bulldog series.

Jack Burgess, at guard, looks well on rebounds, is an accurate passer and a better than average checker. Chuck Burgess, push shot artist, has not been hitting yet this season, but is about due.

Nicholas, guard, has plenty of ability in all departments except scoring. Hesser, guard, is improving with each practice. His height will be an asset Friday and Saturday nights.

Edwards Hustles

Little Russ Edwards, forward, is a hustler and a good shot. His size will be the only thing keeping him out of the coming series. Joe Taylor, center, is snappier than he was earlier in the season.

Defensively Montana will have two choices, man to man or a shifting zone. Against the Bengals Montana tried a zone defense, Dahlberg, satisfied with its effectiveness, will alternate the two defenses to meet opposing offensive formations.

PHYSICAL EDUCATION CLUB WILL MEET TONIGHT

Physical Education club will meet at 7:15 o'clock tonight at the Alpha Chi Omega house. Evelyn LaChappelle, Great Falls, has charge of the program, a discussion of recreational facilities in Missoula.

Tosses 'Em for Uncle Sam Now

Johnny Reagan, colored bombardier for Coach Doug Fessenden's Montana footballers for the past two years, has enlisted in the Air corps. Reagan, a junior with one more year of eligibility, was being pressed by his draft board.

Fourteen Gridders Fail To Return to University

Doug Fessenden, varsity football coach, is seriously thinking of starting some sort of selective service to draft men for next year's grid squad. Reports from the coach's office show nine of the 29-man Cub squad have failed to return this quarter and five of the varsity have suspended relations with the university.

Paul Burke, sophomore end from Billings, is working this quarter but may return to school in the spring if the new draft bill doesn't catch him.

Ed Novis, another end, has offered his services to Uncle Sam's fleet, while Jim Collins, guard, is with the Marines.

John Reagan, gridiron fireball artist, has joined the Army air corps, and Jim Westwater, guard, is working in Chicago's steel mills.

Frosh always have a fairly high mortality rate at the end of the first quarter though this year it would not have been so high had it not been for calls to military services and defense industries. Only two yearlings failed to return because of grades.

Milan Lazetich, one of the best Cub linemen, left school last week for a defense job. Two more prospective guards were lost when Luther Lalum joined the air corps and Harold Davia was relieved of his athletic scholarship. Chuck Stovall, tackle, dropped out because of a coming date with Uncle Sam.

Tony Zillus and Joe Corriere, backs, have turned in their football togs for one of the government's new khaki sport suits.

Dragstedts Lose to Cubs

Grizzly Cubs chalked up another win last night when they defeated the strong Dragstedt Independent five 41 to 30 in the Loyola gym. The neophytes have won five out of five games so far.

Bob Latrielle, forward, led the Cub scoring with 16 points, while Bob Johnson made eight. John Saldin, Dragstedts forward, copped high point honors for his team with 12 counters. Guards Dick Bowman and Barney Berger showed well on defense for the Cubs.

Mavericks Edge Sigma Nus 25-20 in Interfrat Struggle

A smooth passing Maverick five defeated the Sigma Nu quintet 25-20 in the second round of the Interfraternity Basketball league last night. The PDT-SAE game was postponed until a later date.

Both teams set a terrific pace which did not slow down except for moments when the defensive half of the Maverick squad played cautious ball. Both teams had bad luck on shots, but Sigma Nu was checked closer. The half ended 10-7 in favor of Mavericks.

The second half started fast with Maverick forwards Elliott and Munson each chalking up a goal in the first few minutes of play. Ray Reider, tall Sigma Nu center, who had a hard time finding the basket the first half, started looping in counters. With five minutes left to play, Sigma Nu trailed 18 to 21. Munson and Baggenstoss, Maverick guards, hooped two more goals and Richards, guard sank one for the losers to end the game.

Reider and Richards were high-point scorers for Sigma Nu with eight tallies each. Munson led Mavericks with 10.

The next scheduled games will be Monday night with Sig Eps clashing with Theta Chi at 7:30 o'clock and Sigma Chi competing with Phi Sigma Kappa at 8:30.

Co-ops Continue Successfully this Year

Students' Initiative Makes Men's Group Possible; Women Pioneer Venture

Theory Turns to Reality as Leaders Make Plan Possible; News Bulletin, Bachelor Buying Club, Housemother are Part of Co-op Life

Proof that dreams come true, the women's co-op house recently passed its first birthday, while the men's co-op organization will be one year old this spring.

Although the idea for both co-ops was born at the same time in September, 1940, the women's group came into being first because it was more fortunate in securing housing accommodations than was the men's.

Kenneth Bangs, Inverness, and Al Hughes, Belvidere, N. J., long had been conscious of the advantages connected with the co-op plan, but until last year they were unable to put theory into practice. Assisted by Dean J. E. "Burly" Miller, the two men succeeded last spring in founding the men's co-op house, which was located at 540 Daly avenue. The club recently moved to 661 University, formerly the president's house, to secure more room.

Organized in '40

The women's organizations came into being in the fall of 1940 through the efforts of Al Schmitz, Brockton; Harold Tascher, assistant professor of sociology; Dean J. E. Miller, and Reverend Harvey F. Baty, assistant professor of religion. The women still live at their original location, 601 Daly avenue.

Housemother for the men is Mrs. Alice Turner of Sidney, while the women's house is under the supervision of Reverend and Mrs. Baty.

Men's co-op house officers are Ronald Schultz, president, Big Timber; Gordon Holte, manager, Lambert; Tom Willis, secretary, Thompson Falls, and Art Martin, treasurer, Missoula. The first president of the organization was Kenneth Bangs and the first house manager was Al Hughes.

Elaine Cole, Darby, heads the women's club. Other officers are Betty McConaha, house manager, Browning; Betty Chandler, treasurer, Arlee; Katherine Robertson, secretary, Edwards; Betty Jacobson, social chairman, Scobey, and Clara McNeil, publicity chairman, Helena.

More in Men's

There are 18 girls living at the women's co-op house and the men's group now has 27 members.

An original idea, as Montana is the only campus to sponsor such an organization, is the Bachelor's Buying club. This group consists of all students at the university who are bachelors, plus the membership of both co-op houses. Advantage of the scheme is that reduced rates are secured through bulk buying by the club.

The houses are run on a cooperative basis, not only as to finance, but as to work. In the women's house each member is assigned a certain task which she performs all during one quarter, such as keeping the halls clean, or washing the dishes. Avis Schmitz, Brockton, has the very responsible position of doing all cooking.

Meetings Held

House meetings are held every Monday night to settle any difficulties that may have arisen as to duties during the week. The group abides by the same hours which govern other residence halls on the campus. The women give three or four parties each quarter, plus one or two in conjunction with the men's group. An open house is scheduled by both house for sometime in February.

Cooking in the men's home is no small task, but is handled very ably, according to the members, by their housemother. The rest of the work is left up to the boys who divide the major tasks among themselves, while each is responsible for making his own bed.

The lads are more enthusiastic about their new home on University, which, besides being larger, is much closer to classes.

The Student Cooperative Association Weekly News Bulletin represents the combined handiwork of both groups. The sheet is published at regular intervals and contains items about the members.

Bunyans Burn Rods, Not Rubber

Three forestry students, persuaded by mishap and circumstances, began to cooperate in the national program to conserve rubber by less automobile driving.

Californians Carl Fiebelkorn, Monrovia; Bill Lewis, Alhambra, and Everett Sanderson, San Bernardino, started for their homes after exam week in a '32 Chev purchased from a fellow student.

The foresters loaded their car with Christmas trees to sell in California to pay for their trip. A flat tire forced a stop in Idaho Falls and before resuming their journey they had sold all of the trees in that community.

So far, so good, but near Scipio, Utah, the car (Okies' Ark) burned out two connecting rod bearings. Replacing them, the trio arrived home without further misfortune.

All went well on the return trip until a distributor bearing broke 10 miles from Las Vegas, Nevada. A tow and several hours wait in a garage, not to mention the cost, resulted from this breakdown.

Trying again, with fingers crossed, "Oakies' Ark" got only the same 10 miles when it burned out two more connecting rod bearings.

The foresters drove their crippled automobile back to Las Vegas, parked it, shrugged their shoulders and started hitch-hiking toward Missoula.

"We decided to cooperate with the drive to conserve rubber by not driving," Fiebelkorn said on his arrival in Missoula.
